

CLEO BACHELOR OF THE YEAR CHOOSES BONDI'S MOST ELIGIBLE HOTEL FOR PARTY

Swiss Grand Resort & Spa to host this year's most anticipated party

Cleo magazine has chosen Sydney's most eligible beachside party hotel as the destination for its Bachelor of the Year celebration party on 22 April. This iconic crowning of the country's most desirable single man has become one of the year's most anticipated events – especially for Sydney's single women. The Swiss Grand Resort & Spa was chosen as the ideal location to celebrate all that is good in Australian manhood, following this year's photoshoot theme of 'Rooftop Pools'.

Some of the more high profile men competing for the title this year include musicians Axle Whitehead (ex Australian Idol) and Daimon Downey (Sneaky Sound Sytem), actors Damien Walshe-Howling (Underbelly) and Angus McLaren (Packed to the Rafters) and AFL footballer Chris Johnson. One of the nominees, Bondi Rescue lifeguard Tom Bunting, will certainly feel at home and might enjoy a home crowd advantage on the night, although the winner will actually be chosen before this.

As one "this summer's drinking spot", the Swiss Grand's rooftop pool area provides a fittingly beautiful backdrop for the Cleo party, to showcase the beauty of the boys and girls who will be attending.

This is the 22nd Cleo Bachelor of the Year award. Last year's winner was Jason Dundas.
